

ENVIRONMENTAL LAW PRACTICE GROUP

Assisting in creating a cleaner environment

The practice of environmental law demands an interdisciplinary approach to highly technical issues. Our environmental lawyers have extensive experience with matters involving the state and central pollution control boards. The Firm routinely represents clients on regulatory matters involving hazardous waste management, recycling and waste remediation, air and water quality, wetlands management, the handling and disposal of hospital and infectious waste, underground and aboveground storage tanks, and various other environmental issues.

The Environmental Law Practice desk works closely with the Firm's Corporate and Real Estate attorneys to identify environmental issues through assessments and audits when clients engage in the purchase and sale of businesses and real estate.

Our service offerings are as follows:

- ✓ Procuring clearances from various environmental bodies like the State & Central Pollution Control Board.
- ✓ Assisting clients in ensuring that, in case of Industries, they conform to the various regulations specified under law.
- ✓ Representing clients in various environmental disputes at various levels in diverse forums.
- ✓ Handling a wide variety of environmental, energy, safety and health regulatory enforcement matters.
- ✓ Assisting corporate clients with ongoing compliance and audit programs designed to identify and mitigate future environmental, safety and health and energy efficiency problems.
